Graduation 2019

Dear Graduate

We would like to add our personal congratulations to those of King's College London on the occasion of the presentation to you of your award. To achieve a degree or other university qualification is a real milestone in anyone's career, and to have done so at one of the world's great universities is a very fine achievement indeed.

While graduation brings to an end one form of relationship with King's, it also signals the start of another. From this time on, you and your fellow alumni will become ambassadors for King's and the high standards it represents.

We hope you will always remember this day and your links with King's, and we wish you every success in your career and your life ahead.
